Georgia Long Term Care Partnership

Overview

About two-thirds of all Americans will likely need some type of supportive services after age 65. The average rate for a semi-private room in a Georgia nursing home in 2015 was $1830 a day, or $66,795 per year.

What Is Long-Term Care (LTC)?

Long-term care services may include medical, social, housekeeping or rehabilitation services needed for months or years to improve or maintain health and a level of personal independence. Such services are provided in nursing homes, a person's own home or an assisted living facility.

What Is the Georgia Long-Term Care Partnership?

The Georgia Long-Term Care (LTC) Partnership, administered by the Georgia Department of Community Health (DCH) is designed to reward Georgians who plan ahead by purchasing long-term care insurance. This insurance provides a Medicaid asset protection feature. This means that for every dollar a LTC Partnership policy pays out in benefits, a dollar of assets can be protected (disregarded) from the LTC Medicaid asset limit and Estate Recovery.

The Georgia LTC Partnership was established to:

- Provide incentives for individuals to insure against the costs of providing for their long-term care needs.
- Provide a mechanism for individuals to qualify for coverage of the cost of their LTC needs under the Medicaid program without first exhausting their resources.
- Provide counseling services through the Division of Aging Services (DAS) of the Georgia Department of Human Services (DHS).
- Alleviate the financial burden on the Georgia Medicaid program by encouraging pursuit of private initiatives.

Georgia LTC Partners

DCH administers the program. DAS provides an Information hotline and mobilizes a statewide team of specialists to answer public inquires and build community awareness about LTC Partnership policies. The Georgia Office of the Insurance and Fire Safety Commissioner monitors agent licensing and the marketing of partnership-approved policies.
